THE CAMPAIGN.

Magnificent Argument from Hon. James G Blaine, of Maine.

PENDLETON ANNIHILATED.

[CONCLUDED FROM YESTERDAY.]

And, now, I have but one other source of Federal taxation to name, and that is the tax on national banks. I am not here this evening either to assail or defend the national banks, nor even discuss the bank question. It is the subject of taxation of which I am speaking, and I allude to the national banks only to show you that they pay into your Federal Treasury ten million dollars annually as taxation, and that they pay about as much more of local taxes in the various communities in which they do business. Certainly this ten millions that we derive from national banks is not an oppression to the poor man. Holders of bank stock are generally regarded as poor men, and, as a legislator, I am quite at a loss to know how ten millions of dollars could be derived from any other source so easily as from this of the banks.

I have thus hastily and somewhat crudely enumerate all the sources from which our internal revenue is derived. If you will take pains to add up the various sums I have named you will find that they give you the aggregate of one hundred and seventy millions of money. The system of taxation under which this is raised is not accidental or fortuitous, it is the product of laborious research and investigation on the part of a Republican Congress—a Congress anxious to so adjust the scale of taxation that the industrial interests of the country should be effected, while the burden fell only upon articles of luxury and accumulated capital. On this system of taxation the Republican party stand. They do not appologize for it, they justify it, and they assert that to perform efficiently the work of accumulating the amount of money now raised, and to render its payment assured, no other system could possibly be devised by which the burdens would be so little felt by the great mass of community—[Long continued applause.] Happily, on this point, we are at sharp issue with the Democracy, for on this question of taxation the Republican party and the Democratic party are diametrically and irreconcilably hostile. The system approved and endorsed by the Republicans is the system now in force. In opposition to that we find that the Democratic party, in their National Convention, made the folowing declaration on the subject I beg to read it to you verbatim, and to beg that you will specially remember it.

"Resolved, That we demand the equalization of every species of property according to its real value, including Government bonds and securities."

To the latter clause of this resolution I shall re*fer directly, it is to the former portion that I now* invite your attention. The proposition is that every species of property shall be taxed according to its real value. Now, under such a policy, I beg to ask this audience which one of you could escape from the oppression of direct taxation? How many of you to day ever see the face of a Federal tax gatherer? But under the operation of the proposition laid down by the Democratic platform, pray tell me which of you would not see his face, and that continually? Why, this runs into the extreme of absurdity. Let me illustrate. In your city of Philadelphia to day you can distil a gallon of whisky at about the same cost at which you can buy a gallon of milk. The Republicans tax the gallon of whisky fifty cents, the Democratic platform would tax the gallon of milk just the same amount, "every species of property according to its real value," is their motto. A barrel of beer is worth, in your price list, I presume, some fifteen dollars; the Republican legislation taxes it two dollars. A barrel of flour throughout the country averages about fifteen dollars, the Democratic platform would tax it two dollars also. They would tax bread the same as beer, milk the same as whisky, luxuries the same as necessities, churches the same as theatres, making no distinction between a lager beer concert room and a vestry for prayer meetings. It may seem absurd thus to carry out their principle in its legitimate application, but take it in its less offensive and milder form, and where would it stop?

To-day the Republican legislation does not tax your clothing, your hats, your boots, the tools of the mechanic, the machinery of the factory, the farm, the garden, the dwelling, the household property; not one of all these is taxed by Republican legislation. They prefer rather to gather the Government funds through the channels I have indicated, but the Democratic proposition is to make your system of taxation a dead level, to put a sewing machine under the same law that taxes the billiard table, and to put the machinery which supports the families of a hundred artizans under the same taxation that the pleasure yachts of the New York sporting clubs are to day asked to pay. I do not really think that the Democracy knew just what an absurd thing they were doing, when they adopted the first clause of this resolution. They were so anxious to get a lick at the Government bonds and securities, which are included in the second clause, that they quite lost sight of the ridiculous position to which they were committing themselves in the first clause.

And that brings me to say a word about the taxation of Government bonds. I would here remark that various questions have sprung up in regard to our national debt which have created embarrassment in the minds of the people, and in the action of Congress. There is the question of whether taxation should be Federal or local, and, if Federal, whether it should be through the internal revenue system, or by so much being taken off the coupon. And then there is the question whether the bonds are payable in gold or in greenbacks, which, in my judgment, is not a practical question, nor one whose determination is any more necessary to our progress as a nation than that of the immediate settlement of all the questions relating to the exact location of the North pole.

But these questions having been raised, the Republican Congress at its last session labored diligently and earnestly to effect their adjustment, and to that end they passed what is known as the funding bill. That bill proposed to exchange all outstanding bonds for long bonds running forty years at 4½ per cent interest; the bonds to be distinctly payable in gold at the date of maturity, forty years hence, and the interest saved by the 1½ per cent. (amounting to thirty-six millions annually) to be devoted to the reduction and redemption of the principal of the debt.

Now, it will be observed that by this system we should get very much more into the Federal treasury than could possibly be derived from any system of taxation which the wildest Democratic proposition has yet broached, and the bondholder would find his compensation in the fact that the amount thus saved was to be held in the light of a sinking fund for the ultimate payment of his bond. This measure was not undertaken by Congress without prolonged consultation with those who were most interested in our securities on both sides of the water; and it was generally held that a funding bill of this kind would be accepted by the bondholders as an equitable settlement, while to the Government it gave all possible advantages consistent with an equitable treatment of the public creditor.

Now, when an opportunity was presented for thus reducing the public burdens, and providing for the definite payment of the debt, how did the Democracy behave? Why, every member of the party, in both Senate and House, fought the bill at every point, and did so malignantly and maliciously, and when, finally, the bill was carried over their opposition, and went to the President for his signature on the day before Congress adjourned, the Democratic members conspired with President Johnson to withhold his approval of the measure, and kill it by what is known as a pocket veto. Had Mr Johnson sent it back with his veto, Congress would have promptly passed it over his objections; but this did not suit the purposes of the Democratic party, and hence they resorted to more unmanly tactics.

I confess I was amazed at this Democratic hostility to a measure which seemed to embrace a remedy for all the evils of which the Democrats complained in connection with our public debt, and in my simplicity I said to one of the most conspicuous of their number, that I could not understand the ground of Democratic opposition to a measure which seemed in all its aspects so wise, and just, and fair, as this one, and likely to settle all disputed questions of this character on a permanent basis. "Why," said this gentleman, whose name, of course, I withhold, "it is because the measure is wise, and just, and fair, and likely to settle all these disputes, that we are opposed to it. We do not intend that you Black Republicans shall go into the Presidential canvass with that question settled; we shall keep it open for agitation."

So much for the sincerity of the Democracy on this question of taxing the bonds and reducing the national interest. Then comes up the Pendletonian escort of Democracy, shouting, "we want no funding bills nor any other adjustment of our national debt, except to pay it off at once in greenbacks; oh, let us settle it at once by paying it in greenbacks." Well, I am dull of comprehension, but I never yet could understand how the national debt could be reduced or paid off by changing the form of the note by which the Government acknowledges its indebtedness. We owe to-day twenty one hundred millions of bonded debt, due fifteen, twenty, and forty years hence. Suppose you pay it all off to morrow in greenbacks, (which are due bills), does the Government owe any the less the next day? "Oh, but," answers some enthusiastic admirer of the Pendletonian theory, "we will at least save the interest by paying it off in greenbacks." Yes, my friend, I acknowledge that; but in attempting to save the interest, as you propose, you imitate the foolhardiness of the man who got rid of his corns by amputating his legs. You save the interest, but at what expense? Why, at the expense of deranging our entire commercial fabric; at the expense of destroying the value of the medium in which the exchanges are to be made. Experience, it is said, is a dear school, and that fools will learn in none other, while wise men learn by observation. Well, you have had an opportunity to observe this principle of inflation as it was tried in the so-called Southern Confederacy. During the first year of the war a paper dollar in Richmond was as good as a paper dollar in Washington; both were worth a hundred cents. The second year of the war the difference was very great. The third year the Confederate note began to droop, and the fourth year its value entirely collapsed. It was my fortune to go into Richmond three days after its surrender, and there I found free negroes and Confederate money in most plentiful abundance. The one lined all the sidewalks, and the other was kicked up and down the middle of the streets. The melancholy experience of that community was well epitomized in the anecdote of the man who declared that in the first year of the war he carried his marketing in his basket and his money in his vest pocket, but the last year of the war he carried his money in his basket and his marketing in his vest pocket.

Give us 2,100 millions of irredeemable paper money bearing no interest, in absolute and absurd excess of the demands of a circulating medium, and you repeat in Philadelphia the terrible starvation experiences of Richmond. And my friends, you don't even punish the bondholder, if that be your object. You pay him off, and as rapidly as he is paid, before the great crash comes, he invests in the property of the country, while the men who sell merchandise, and who labor daily, the laboring classes, are compelled to take and hold this depreciated paper. Out of such a condition of affairs there are but two roads of exit: one is absolute repudiation, with all its terrible experiences and lasting obloquy, and the other is a process for funding the excess of currency back into a similar security for which you madly exchanged it in your delusive theory that a debt could be paid by changing the form of the note. Did you accept the first road and repudiate, no imagination could depict the ruinous consequences, the youngest person within the sound of my voice would not live to see the national prosperity of the country fully restored, while the latest generation would bear the evil obloquy which would forever attach to the name of an American. If you took the second road and funded the debt, you would simply crawl back into the same hole from which you so ingloriously crept, a sadder and wiser but [illegible] people [illegible] you would have been but for this unfortunate experiment.

What was the action of the Democrats at the time when the issue of greenbacks was an essential step in saving the life of the nation?—the war had progressed to a point at which our expenditures were three million dollars per day. To pay this expense in gold was impossible. We had reached just that point where we confronted an exigency that required both statesmanship and courage; money must be had, and gold coin could not be raised. Then what did the Government do? What would any one of you do if called upon to pay immediately a debt of $10,000, when, though worth perhaps $100,000 in property, you have not $1,000 in ready cash? Do you cut your throat in despair? That is precisely what the Democrats thought the nation should do, but the Republicans, who were administering the Government, thought otherwise. They said, "Here, the whole property of this nation is pledged for its own salvation, and the Government not being able [illegible] in coin will give its note, and we will impart to that note, by an act of high sovereignty, the character of legal tender between all our citizens." [Cheers.] And from that day to this, between you and me, the Government notes have been and continue to be a legal tender. And that act, gentlemen, of high sovereignty saved this nation. The Government either had to raise money through this act or abandon the contest. Without money it was idle to expect to raise men, without men you could have no army, and without an army the Southern Confederacy was victorious. Hence I say that the issue of the legal tender currency was a step just as essential to the life of the nation as was the great victory at Gettysburg or the storming of Vicksburg. At that time did Mr. Pendleton and his followers raise their voices for legal-tenders and for greenbacks? Not at all, they opposed the issue of them in every possible way, and Mr. Pendleton himself delivered a speech against the measure, whose bitterness and burning and blistering words ring in my ears at this moment. He declared that the Government had no right to make this money a legal tender; that if we attempted it we sent forth the paper with the stamp of irredeemability upon its forefront, with the brand of Cain upon it; and his followers in the House and in the country echoed his sentiments. But the Republicans triumphed over them. They issued the legal tender money, and they saved the nation; and now comes up Mr. Pendleton, who, when greenbacks were indispensable to the nation's life, could find no authority for issuing them, now demanding that a perfect deluge of them shall be turned upon the country. When, during the war, we were in actual need of the greenbacks, Mr Pendleton bitterly opposed our issuing them, and now, in a time of profound peace, and when the Government paper ought to be equal in value to gold, and when no fresh issue is demanded, Mr. Pendleton forgets his former constitutional objections, foregoes his bitter hostility, and cries aloud for an illimitable issue. But Republicans did not allow Mr. Pendleton to obstruct the issue of greenbacks, when they were needed to save the life of the nation, and the Republicans will not allow Mr. Pendleton to enforce the issue of greenbacks when inflation is not needed, and when it would be utterly ruinous to the industrial and mechanical interests of the entire nation.

Mr. Blaine then commented on the fact that all the national, State, and local platforms of the Democracy had made a great issue in regard to the Freedmen's Bureau; their mildest form of stating their oppression being the assertion that the Republican Congress was boarding the negroes down South at first-class hotels, while the white folks had to work for a living. The facts were that at the close of the war, with the labor system of four millions of black people entirely disrupted, some measure of reorganization was absolutely essential, not only essential for the good of the colored race but but for the interest of the nation and especially for the furtherance of the cotton culture—Hence the Freedmen's Bureau was organized, and from the date of it organization to the first of the current month its whole expenditures had been $7 935 292 17. At the same session at which the bureau was organized a tax of five cents a pound was levied on cotton, which was a direct tax on the labor of the negro. During the three and a half years that the bureau had been in operation the cotton tax had yielded $66,163,866 82. Some Democrat might say that the cotton tax would have been derived anyhow, and that that did not excuse the expenditure for the

800 MILES OF THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

Are now finished and in operation. Although this road is built with great rapidity, the work is thoroughly done, and is pronounced by the United States Commissioners to be first-class in every respect, before it is accepted, and before any bonds can be issued upon it.

Rapidity and excellence of construction have been secured by a complete division of labor, and by distributing the twenty thousand men employed along the line for long distances at once. It is now probable that the Whole Line to the PACIFIC will be Completed in 1869.

The Company have ample means of which the Government grants the right of way, and all necessary timber and other materials found along the line of its operations, also 12,800 acres of land to the mile taken in alternate sections on each side of its road, also United States Thirty year Bonds, amounting to from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile, according to the difficulties to be surmounted on the various sections to be built, on which it takes a second mortgage as security and it is expected that not only the interest, but the principal amount may be paid in services rendered by the Company in transporting troops, mails, &c.

THE EARNINGS OF THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD from its Way or Local Business only during the year ending June 30th, 1868 amounted to over which, after paying all expenses was much more than sufficient to pay the interest upon its Bonds. These earnings are no indication of the vast through traffic that must follow the opening of the line to the Pacific, but they certainly prove that upon such a property, costing nearly three times their amount,

Are Entirely Secure.

The Union Pacific Bonds run thirty years, are for $1,000 each and have coupons attached. They bear annual interest payable on the first days of January and July at the Company's office in the City of New York, at the rate of six per cent in gold. The principal is payable in gold at maturity. The price is 102, and at the present rate of gold, they pay a liberal income on their cost.

A very important consideration in determining the value of these bonds is the length of time they have to run.

It is well known that a long bond always commands a much higher price than a short one. It is safe to assume that during the next thirty years the rate of interest in the United States will decline as it has done in Europe, and we have a right to expect that such six per cent securities as these will be held at as high a premium as those of this Government which, in 1857, were bought in at from 20 to 23 per cent above par. The export demand alone may produce this result, and as the issue of a private corporation they are beyond the reach of political action.

The Company believe that their Bonds at the present rate are the cheapest security in the market, and the right to advance the price at any time is reserved.

Subscriptions will be received in Titusville by

Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the Bonds will be sent free of charge by return express. Parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A PAMPHLET AND MAP FOR 1868 is just published by the Company, giving fuller information than is possible in an advertisement, respecting the Progress of the Work, the Resources of the Country traversed by the Road, the Means for Construction, and the Value of the Bonds, which will be sent free on application at the Company's offices or to any of the advertised agents.

Spain

PARIS, Sept. 28.

The Moniteur has the following from Spain: Thirty thousand people in the province of Alicante have revolted. Three ships appeared Sunday off Carthagena, supposed to be part of Gen. Prim's fleet. Marshal Pavia of the Royal army is still retreating. It is reported that the town of Leon has pronounced for the revolutionists. It is reported that Saragassa had revolted and that Gen. Jean Reguila, Count of Chester, was killed.

MADRID, Sept. 28.

The insurgents have torn up the railroad in the Sierra Morena. Count Girgento with his troops, is compelled to remain in the mountain defiles. Gen. Prim is expected at Barcelona to-day, where the people are only waiting for his arrival to rise. Madrid and Saragassa are also ripe for revolt. The vanguard of the army under Novalechez numbering 3000 has joined the insurgents. He has in consequence, been obliged to wait for reinforcements. A French squadron had arrived at Barcelona.

LONDON, Sept. 28.

A battle is hourly expected between Novalechez and Gorrano near Cordova. The Royalists lost over 600 men in the fight at Santander but they succeeded in retaining possession of the city. Gen. Cologne marches to-morrow on Santona. He has resolved to burn the place if it makes any resistance.

Railroad Accident.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.

The Fletcher tunnel on the M. & C. Railroad which caught fire some days ago, and has since been burning, caved in yesterday and buried two men. Their remains have not been recovered. While a constructed engine was backing up to the scene of disaster, a hand car near Athens, containing 18 men, was run over, killing 5 and seriously injuring three others, two of whom are not expected to recover. The men endeavored to jump from the car, which was demolished.— One man had his head entirely severed from his body, and another, half of his head torn off by splinters from the car. The burning and caving of the tunnel has blocked the road, but the company are building a track over the hill, which will soon be completed.

Gen. Rosecrans

Gen. Rosecrans is in the city and stopping at the Burnett House.

Four Miners Crushed to death.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 28.

Four English Miners, named William Moore, Richard Sampson, James Richard and James Thomas, were instantly crushed to death last Thursday by the falling in of a shaft of an iron mine at Mount Hope, Morris county, N. J. They were buried on Sunday. An immense crowd of miners attended the funeral.

—There is a son named McCollister organizing Ku Klux Klans in Venango county. The Citizen says he carries two carpet bags—one containing a negro's "skull" [illegible] on, and the other fraudulent naturalization papers. He is bound for the Western Penitentiary

—An immense Republican meeting was held at Rouseville last night Hon Thomas M Marshall and Gen. Blakely spoke. There was a torch light procession and bonfires, and "[illegible] all along the line." Oil Creek will score big Republican majorities on the 13th of October

Reign of Terror at the South

There can be no doubt that a regular reign of terror prevails at the South at this time. When Lee's army grounded their arms and dispersed for their homes, they were very mute They expected the confiscation of their lands as the just penalty of their treason They feared their leaders, Davis, Stephens, Hampton, Forrest, Lee, Cobb, Toombs, etc, would be tried, convicted and hung They expected to take "the back seats" But a different policy was adopted. Lincoln was killed off, and Johnson went back to his first love, like "a sow to her wallowing in the mire." Then the rebels began to hold up their heads The next thing we heard was the prating about "their rights." Then they began to cheat the Freedmen out of their wages, and to pass "black codes," re-establishing slavery in every thing but the name Congress proffered to them "the olive branch" They spit upon the Constitutional Amendment They said we won't have impartial "suffrage" but we will have universal "amnesty" They said we won't bind ourselves to pay your debt, and to repudiate ours Then began massacres and riots, destitution and starvation. Congress organized the Freedmen's Bureau for the benefit of blacks and whites It was a necessity, it was an act of common humanity There has been more monstrous lying about this Department than any other Its objects has been misrepresented, and its cost has been most outrageously exaggerated One Democratic paper, the Albany Argus, said it cost the taxpayers ten millions a year. The man Church, who was brought out by the New York World, as the choice of New York State for the Presidency at the time of the Democratic National Convention, with the characteristic truthfulness of the man, put the cost at four hundred millions The truth is, its expenditures, up to the first of August last, were but $5,877,251 78, The Bureau was organized in May, 1865, but only got fairly under weigh in July, 1865 A large portion of this money comes from rents of abandoned lands, taxes, fines and miscellaneous sources, as well as cash drawn from the Treasury And the funds of the Bureau were distributed to rebels and Union men alike with the freedmen, and only in cases of actual necessity But we will not dwell upon this item. The disorders at the South and the oppressions and persecutions of the freedmen and Union men, made it necessary to set up Military Governments, until the States could be reorganized on the basis of impartial suffrage. All but two of the States are reorganized under the reconstruction acts of Congress, and the civil will soon supersede military authority at the South But Blair says the Reconstruction acts must be set aside and the President must trample upon the revolutionary laws of Congress, as he calls them. The old rebel leaders applaud this to the echo Some of the most notorious of them came up to New York. They got a platform to suit them, and a candidate after their own heart, and they went home hurrahing for the "lost cause" And ever since then, as we said at the opening, a reign of terror has prevailed there at the South.

Assessment.

The various Republican organizations of the different wards and townships should make it a special point of duty to see that all their legal voters are assessed before Saturday next In attending to this duty they should not only look after the poorest and most unfortunate of the party, but after many whose education and position are supposed to render them "sure." There are many men attached to the general principles of the Republican party, who give it but a loose allegiance, and are careless whether they vote or not. These men are scattered through the community, of which they are educated and respectable constituents. These men are usually passed by, in the canvassing, and put down as "sure"—This is all wrong It is criminally careless, and he who looks after the certainty of having all such men assessed, will be doing the party an incalculable service. The election occurs on the 13th of October. Ten days before that time is the limit fixed for assessments.

New Well on Cherry Tree Run During Sunday last a new well on Pioneer Farm, near the Porter well was tested and yesterday the production was reported to be from two hundred to three hundred barrels per day. The well has not pumped a sufficient length of time to determine what the production will be, but it is safe to say that it will be one of the best in the region.

Ho for Philadelphia.—At the meeting last evening it was decided that the delegations from this city and other points in this vicinity start for Philadelphia on the train leaving Titusville at 5:30 p. m. to-day, and leave Corry at 9:30 p. m., arriving at Philadelphia at 5 p. m. Wednesday.

Venango County Local Candidates—Capt. H. H. Herpst for Sheriff.

The Democrats are playing "a losing game." There is not the slightest chance for Seymour, and our candid adversaries admit it, and will sell out their electoral tickets to elect their Congressman in close or doubtful districts. But more than that, they will swap off all the rest, to elect their candidates for local offices, especially offices of emolument, where there is patronage for the party.

We advise Republicans to stand by their colors and candidates, every man of them; especially where a soldier is running for office, to vote for him and to carry him into office on a swelling tide of a majority, is a double testimony for our cause, and for loyalty against rebellion, and every vestige of it that is left in the country.

We beg our Republican friends to be alive and stirring, and not to allow any of their candidates to be sacrificed by their apathy, or the trickery of their opponents If the Republicans of Venango only get assessed in time (there is only about a week left to do it) they can give Gilfillan, Duncan, Myers and Herpst and the rest of the ticket 1,000 majority in October, just as they gave 900 for the Republican ticket in 1866. But conscious strength is apt to beget over-confidence, and the enemy as of old "sow tares while we sleep"

A report has been started that Capt. Herpst, the candidate for Sheriff in Venango County, is opposed by Major Maitland, who was a competitor for the nomination. This is false. Major Maitland gives to Capt Herpst a most cordial support Every citizen of Venango county is interested in having the office of Sheriff filled by one of first rate business capacity, and a good citizen, and such a man is Capt. Herpst. As deputy Sheriff until last spring, he has also acquired that practical familiarity with the routine and executive duties of his office, which give him peculiar qualifications for the position.

The charge that Capt. Herpst is an old party hack is ludicrous to those that know the man. He has never held an office before, and when his name was brought forward two years ago, he withdrew from the canvass, in favor of Captain Gray, the present incumbent of that position. As there are many new comers in the oil regions, we will refer to the record of Capt Herpst, who is a candidate for their suffrages, for a very responsible office.

Mr Herpst has lived in Venango County half his life time [illegible] fifteen years. He followed farming till the oil excitement broke out in our midst, when he engaged at Tarr Farm and other places in putting down wells. He gave up a lucrative employment to enter the military service, and in July, '62, enlisted as a private in Company A, 121st Regiment, Pa Vol. Inft; he served till the close of the war, and was in command of the regiment in the Army of the Potomac when Lee surrendered. If there was a regiment that saw harder service or did more brilliant or severe fighting than the noble 121st of Venango County, we don't know it It participated in every engagement from the battle of Fredericksburg till the surrender of Lee and Captain Herpst did not miss a fight, and was always at his post. At Gettysburg, the Regiment went in with 236 men, it came out of that bloody struggle with 56 Out of Capt Herpst's company of 32, 5 only with the Captain escaped to tell the story

This gallant regiment, gathered from the firesides of Venango county, fought themselves like men, and at Franklin a marble monument perpetuates their names, and their patriotic devotion And if there is a good office in the gift of the people, by all means give it to a soldier, if he is a good citizen and competent for the position As for Jacob Stark, his opponent, he's got a most cruelly unfortunate name, and the people don't want Starks in office, especially if they are Democrats, in these times

Dr. Bly's Patent Sucker Rod Adjuster.—This is one of the most valuable improvements ever made in the apparatus for pumping oil wells. By the use of it the sucker rods may be raised up or let down any distance, from an inch to eight or ten feet in one or two minutes Ordinarily one or two hours, and sometimes several hours are lost in cutting the rod, getting out the rivets and riveting the iron on again, to obtain the proper length During this time the well is shut down, and may be more or less damaged by the stoppage And the loss of oil from such stoppage often amounts to twenty-five or fifty dollars in a single week.

All this loss is saved by using the sucker rod Adjuster

In testing a well the saving is very great also, no time being lost in making connections With the assistance of a ten, and a five foot rod, every foot of the well may be pumped without cutting a rod.

The Adjuster forms its own connections with the walking beam, and renders stirrups and other connections unnecessary. It rests on the walking beam, in a groove or bearing, and above it is placed a piece of hard wood about three inches thick and two feet long, one end of which is slotted and rests on the bearings of the Adjuster, and the other extends back, the extreme end resting on the walking beam. A long T headed bolt, passes through it and the walking beam just back of the Adjuster, with nut underneath. By loosening this nut the block may be raised up or slipped back, and the Adjuster and polished rod removed together, the end of the walking beam being slotted for that purpose

A long polished rod, in connection with the Adjuster, is preferable, because it gives more room for change. An inch rod, twelve feet long, is the most useful A screw should be cut on the upper end of the rod, to fit the sucker rod swivel, for convenience in drawing rods. Dr. Bly is the patentee They are manufactured and for sale at Gibbs, Russell & Co's. in this city.

David Barry, an Irishman of Cleveland, publishes a card, in which, referring to Blair's St. Louis "Finnegan" speech, he says he "would as soon vote for that arch traitor, Jeff Davis, or Benjamin Disraeli of England, as for a man who could so heartlessly trifle with the most cherished feelings of our race." He then adds "The Irishman who can tamely swallow down such an insult to his country, and her heroic efforts to be free, without resenting it at the ballot box next November, is destitute of all public spirit, dead to the claims and sufferings of his motherland, and is anything but an honor to that proud, defiant, sensitive old race whence he sprung."

Immigration.

The immigration of foreigners into this country, while not decreasing in volume, has assumed some new features during the past year Foremost is the fact that the Irish no longer bear the same overwhelming proportion to all other emigrants arriving on our shores that they did in former years. The Irish emigrants in 1867 were 65,134, Germans 117,591, English 33,712, and of other nations 26,294, making 242,731 in all. But a small proportion return, and of these the majority no doubt have earned a little competence during several years of work in America.

The average passage of sailing vessels is about forty days, while that of passenger steamers has now been reduced to from twelve to fifteen. The worst part of the sufferings reported were in two sailing vessels, the Leibnitz, of Sloman's line, from Hamburg, and the Giuseppe Baccarcick, despatched by A. Strauss & Co, from Antwerp Of the 544 passengers in the former, 108 died, and of 180 in the latter, 20 died. There was this difference between the two cases; that in the former the captain, Bornhold, appears more to blame than the owners, for not preserving proper care and cleanliness on board; while in the latter the crime of the shippers in providing rotten and deficent provisions, with water in sperm oil casks, was alleviated as much as possible by Captain Viasich, who was kind to his unfortunate passengers, and shared his own stores with them.

The steamers from Liverpool and Queenstown, on the largest amount of passengers, show the smallest percentage of deaths, namely, one-eleventh of one per cent. By the steamers from other ports it is one-eighth to three-quarters of one per cent., and in sailing vessels from one third of one per cent. to two-and-a half per cent

The New York Evening Post says that the emigrants lately arriving are of a superior class in means and education to those of former years. This may be seen by observing the comfortable and often fashionable styles of dress that prevail in the Castle Garden, and the luggage landed has averaged at least one package to each passenger. Among the Germans larger sums of money come in; we are told that two men coming together recently brought $1,900 in gold. These Germans also generally go at once into the country on arrival, and become productive laborers.

The cause of the increased emigration of North Germans is supposed to be their dislike of the Prussian rule which practically prevails in the new North German Confederation. A letter from Hesse reports that the immense exodus of peasants, many of them in easy circumstances, is caused by the excessive increase of taxation—The Telegraph Company at Hamburg have organized a system by which emigrants can communicate to their friends in Europe the fact of their arrival out, for the sum of three dollars.

Of 34,000 emigrants who arrived in one month New York State absorbed nearly one fourth, or 7,842, and Illinois 6,755, the remainder were divided among the other States, no one taking more than about 2,000 The valuable Emigrant Refuge and Hospital on Ward's Island had on January 1st about 1,200 inmates, who were furnished with food, lodging and attendance until they could get work. 12,482 passed through the institution during the year, and the net expenses were $194,525.

Lookout for the Seymour Counterfeit Money.

The Democrats as an electioneering trick have had a bill printed which so closely imitates the $1 Greenback in size, color and general appearance, that in the hurry of business they might readily pass for genuine money The only difference on the face which would be likely to be noticed at first sight is that there is a portrait of Seymour on the left hand corner instead of Chase. On the back it still more resembles the genuine money, except that there is printed on the bottom, in black, the words, "The Contract" The face bears this inscription, in the same style of lettering as the genuine notes. "Act of July 11, 1862. The people of the United States promised to pay the Bondholders in Greenbacks, and they will enforce this Contract" It also has the engraved signatures of the United States Treasurer, and the Register of the Treasury. The general resemblance to the greenbacks is so perfect that we are not surprised to learn that a number of them have been passed off as genuine to Lancaster The Express of that city says one was passed upon a lady, who afterwards innocently offered it in payment of goods at a grocery store, and others have been swindled in the same way

Let everybody look out for them Any person found circulating them under any pretense is liable to arrest. It will be time enough to have to take Seymour money after Seymour is elected and the national debt is paid off in greenbacks, when the whole national currency will be just about as worthless as this Democratic money now is.

The Lebanon Courier, commenting upon the same subject, says.

> Whether these counterfeit notes are to be used to buy votes, as recommended last year by the chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to pay for coffee to prepare naturalization papers with, or to be used to fill the depleted pocket books of some of the loafing members of that persuasion, we are not certain, but sure it is that this counterfeit currency is getting into circulation, and the crime of circulating it demands the attention of the law officers of the country One of these notes was brought to a Lebanon bank, the other day, by an honest farmer who had no doubt been victimized by one of Seymour's "shovers" of counterfeit money. Another one, we learn, was passed upon Mr Stark, at his market stall, on Saturday morning.
> There is no doubt a double object in the circulation of this counterfeit currency. One is, to help the immediate pockets of those engaged in it, the other has a wider and meaner criminality, in the design to bring the currency of the country into disrepute so as to injure the national credit, and to make the national obligations as worthless as the Copperheads desired them to be in the days of our extremity, when they declared that a "bushel of greenbacks would be worth less than a bushel of potatoes."

The Last Fight of the War.

Once more rings out the bugle call!
Once more the [illegible] falls;
Once more the Boys are gath'ring,
Beneath the Autumn skies,
For treason makes its final fight
Again at the Rights of Man!
But the flag we raise, as in other day,
And Grant is in the van!

We've heard that rebel yell before,
We've heard that traitor whine—
When Riots roared in the Bowery,
And Lee had crossed the line,
But victory came in a blaze of flame,
That scorched the rebel clan,
For the Boys in Blue were stout and true—
And Grant was in the van!

Still raged the war; the grass grew green
O'er many a soldier form,
Till Peace came, fair as a morning star,
After a night of storm
And shall we now the fruits of peace,
To Treason tamely yield!
Not while a soldier wields a vote,
And Grant is in the field!

So close up ranks and forward march!
Till the crowning fight is won!
While the sweet old music fills our hearts
With the soul of battles gone.
Our cause is blest; we cannot fail
Who strive for the Rights of Man!
The stars in their courses fight for us—
And Grant is in the van!

Facts to be Remembered.

Residents of the city who are unnaturalized, but who are eligible to citizenship, and who intend to vote at the forthcoming election should know that:

Any alien may become a citizen of the United States by declaring on oath or affirmation before the state courts of competent jurisdiction, two years before his commission, that it is his bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States. To become such citizen, he must have resided within the United States five years at least, and one year at least in the State or territory where the court is held where he may be admitted to such citizenship.

The declaration of intention to become a citizen may be made before a clerk of a court of competent jurisdiction to the same effect as if made before a court.

A minor under the age of twenty one years, who shall have resided in the United States three years next preceding his arriving at such age, may, after he shall have resided five years within the United States, and after he arrives at the age of twenty-one years, be admitted a citizen without having made the declaration of his intention to become so, two years prior to such admission.

An alien, of the age of twenty-one years and upward, who enlisted in the armies of the United States, either the regular or volunteer forces, and has been honorably discharged, may be admitted to become a citizen on proof of his residence of one year within the United States previous to his application to become a citizen, and without a declaration of his intention to become such citizen.

To entitle aliens to vote at the next presidential election, they must procure their naturalization papers on or before the 24th day of October next

How Democrats Carry Elections.

John Casey, an honest Irish laborer on the Clearfield railroad, was summoned to appear before the Legislative Investigating Committee last winter to testify in relation to the frauds committed at the election polls in Philipsburg, Centre county. As a law abiding citizen he came to Harrisburg and told the story in his own honest way, which is recorded in the Legislative Record, page 111. It reads as follows

> John Casey, sworn—I was working on the railroad for Mr. Collins at the October (1867) election, was boarding in Philipsburg, where I voted with the other men, Mr Lede took me up to vote and gave me the naturalization paper, and I put it in, cannot read, am as ignorant as a baste, I put the paper in my pocket, cannot tell what became of it; I was never naturalized, never was in a court before this; Lede told me to vote, I was working near Mr Collins' store; came the day that O'Meara did to Philipsburg; I voted Democratic

Such is the testimony of an honest Irishman These words are the verbatim report of the testimony given by Casey under oath before the investigating committee of the Senate, and four days after the examination when the above was elicited he was found in the road near Clearfield, brutally murdered, beaten to death with clubs He had undoubtedly been killed lest he should tell more, and to wipe out every trace of the crime at the polls, on the night of the murder, two men, on a forged order, obtained from his landlady all his papers and destroyed them—Dead men tell no tales, and the agents who seduced John Casey into committing a crime against the country will probably never be known in this world.

Now we offer a word of warning to Irishmen in Titusville, ineligible to citizenship, who are being urged by Democrats to attend the naturalization court at Meadville and swear out their papers. We have unimpeachable evidence that frauds of this character are not only in contemplation, but in some instances have already been perpetrated, and we have good reason to fear that certain Democrats we know of will have to do their voting in the Allegheny Penitentiary.

Pleasantville Items

REPAIRS ON PLANK ROAD

We learn from the toll gate keeper, that the contract has been let for replanking a considerable portion of the plank road between Pleasantville and Titusville, and the work will be commenced this week. The entire road will be put in good repair during the month of October.

REPUBLICANS, ATTENTION!

Hon. Thomas Marshall, of Pittsburgh, will be at Pleasantville to day (Tuesday), at 2 o'clock p m, and address the citizens at Haight's Hall at that hour. Mr. Marshall has the reputation of being one of the best speakers in the State. Let there be a full turn out on the occasion.

STABBING AFFRAY

A man named John Riley was arrested on Saturday night about twelve o'clock at a house about half a mile out of the borough limits, for stabbing Matthew Gulton. Both had been partaking rather freely of an inferior quality of benzine, and getting into a dispute, one of them tried to let some of the benzine out of the other's stomach by stabbing him in the abdomen with a jack knife. Then fearing that some of it had got into his head, an incision was also made in the skull, which was treating an acquaintance rather badly. The party making the assault was arrested by policeman Farrand and deputy sheriff Curtiss and brought before Esquire Holman, who committed him in default of $500 bail.

THE THEATRE.

Sanford & Mortimer with their variety troupe, offer great attractions nightly, at the Pleasantville theatre. Among the recent additions to the company are Miss Agnes Sutherland, a vocalist of more than ordinary ability, and Signorita Lopez, a female gymnast of considerable celebrity. Messrs. Bole and Doherty and other old patriots are still with the company.

STOVES.

Attention is called to the advertisement of D G. King who has a large stock of cooking and heating stoves on hand, which he offers for sale at very low prices.
